Statement of Compliance

The Responsible Individual must prepare the statement of compliance.

CIW have published guidance on completing the quality of care review which provides advice on what could be contained within the statement of compliance.

Set out your statement of compliance in respect to the four well-being areas below.

The extent to which people feel their voices are heard, they have choice about their care and support, and opportunities are made available to them.	The manager ensures that staffing levels are good and approp riate to the service users in the home. support is available through their GP, district nurses, dentist, ch iropodist, hairdressing. Care plans continue to be reviewed on a monthly basis.
The extent to which people are happy and supported to maintain their ongoing health, development and overall wellbeing. For children, this will also include intellectual, social and behavioural development.	Doctors and other health professionals visit the home when req uired. Medication is ordered every four weeks so as to maintain stock. The home organises many activities in the home for the S/U.
The extent to which people feel safe and protected from abuse and neglect.	There are systems in the home to support safeguarding of vuln erable people and any issues are reported through the correct safeguarding procedures.
The extent to which people live in accommodation that best supports their wellbeing and achievement of their personal outcomes.	The home continues to provide the best for its S/U through audi ts and internal and external safety checks, including routine ser vicing of all appliances and lifting equipment, fire prevention, fo or safety, medication reporting of faults and staff supervision.

Statement of Compliance

Γ

The Responsible Individual must prepare the statement of compliance.

CIW have published guidance on completing the quality of care review which provides advice on what could be contained within the statement of compliance.

Set out your statement of compliance in respect to the four well-being areas below.

The extent to which people feel their voices are heard, they have choice about their care and support, and opportunities are made available to them.	S/U are involved in their care plans and families are encourage d to participate also. S/U are listened to by the staff employed in the home, residents meeting take place. The home engages with other professionals to enable the best outcome for each S/U. The care plans remain well structured, person centered and ref lect the care and choices given
The extent to which people are happy and supported to maintain their ongoing health, development and overall wellbeing. For children, this will also include intellectual, social and behavioural development.	The home encourages all S/U to contribute to whatever is going on in the home and outside of the home. Families are welcome to visit at all times, the home has an open door policy and manager/staff are always available to answer a ny concers etc. Doctors and health professionals visit the home when required. Medication is ordered on a four weekly system. Questionaires are available for S/U their family and friends to pr ovide feedback and offer suggestions of personal preferences.
The extent to which people feel safe and protected from abuse and neglect.	The home continues to update all staff when necessary on safe guarding issues. The manager aranges reviews when necessary to support the S/U in our care.
The extent to which people live in accommodation that best supports their wellbeing and achievement of their personal outcomes.	There are systems in place to support people who use the servi ce so that they live in a safe and suitable environment by ongoi ng internal and external health and safety checks and audits.
